

(May 8, 2018) JKLM Energy's mission is to responsibly produce natural gas, benefit the local economy, and protect our environment, workers and community while enhancing American energy security. These commitments reflect Terry Pegula's vision, values as well as strong and proven energy industry leadership, which spans 35+ years.

We can safely produce clean-burning American natural gas while improving our environment. Through Mr. Pegula's direction, JKLM works continuously to identify technologies and best practices such as installing monitoring wells on wellpads, facilitating water quality monitoring, engaging independent environmental inspectors to monitor our activities, and working with our peers and regulators to enhance responsible development of shale gas resources that further improve our operations.

We're proud of the work that we continue to accomplish together, and the local benefits that we're creating, and recognize that it's a privilege to operate in the communities where we work, invest, and grow local jobs. At JKLM, there's no higher priority than keeping our environment and communities safe.
